Admission to the Radiologic Technology Program is selective and competitive. The number of students is limited by the number of faculty and clinical facilities available. Meeting the minimum requirements does not guarantee acceptance.

Admission shall be provisional until receipt of a:

- 1) Negative drug screening results. Random drug screens will be conducted throughout the program.
- 2) Criminal background results. A positive finding will result in the need for clearance by the clinical facilities in order to participate in all clinical assignments. Should a positive finding prevent a student from rotating through all facilities, acceptance will be revoked.
- 3) If the student is denied admittance to ANY clinical site for ANY reason, acceptance will be revoked.

Upon acceptance into the RAD program, all students must submit:

- A completed physical examination form.

- Immunization documentation.
- Essential functions form (with or without accommodations).
- CPR certification – BLS for Healthcare providers only. You must show proof of certification for the entire length of the program.
