Student to Faculty Ratio

INSTITUTIONAL RESEARCHERS:
Bridging the Gap Between Data and Decisions

Trenholm's student-to-faculty ratio is 15:1. This measures the size of the student body relative to the College's faculty based on "full-time equivalency" (FTE); which includes full-time students and faculty and counts part-time students and faculty based on their credit load (i.e., a student taking  $\frac{1}{2}$  credits of a full-time student is counted as 0.5). A lower student-to-faculty ratio is better. It is a broad measure that indicates the amount of faculty resources accessible to each student.
